PROPERTIES 'OF TREATMENT OF QUAIL EGGS

An egg miracle can cure many diseases. Scientists ancient 4000 year old Chinese and Egyptians used the quail egg to combat a wide range of diseases. Today, this still happens in 2011 after various studies and repeated Nipponese and French scientists. It 'so strange and funny, this egg, nature tries to persevere in every way the man from all evil, it runs continuously behind with its natural remedies and specific for every evil that can accompany the life of a man. The very nature gives us the solution and the only evil of this system where we live is the stress and anxiety that hit us when we are sick of other ills, but the main cause is just. Let us remember the pet therapy treatment of the countryside or close contact with nature awakens in us the magic of living in our world. Stress and anxiety is a signal from our body tells us that in our life there is something wrong and should be changed immediately. It 'a defense, the rhythms of the system run faster or we adapt or we are back but in both cases we will not ever good. The solution is to recover, return to live in the countryside in close contact with nature and with animals. Stop, do not immediately think this is impossible for me, remember that whatever you put yourself in the head you're in command, not the system or situation, the decision starts with you. Having said that some notes on the egg of quail and its huge therapeutic properties.
